

The Insider

Trends & Talk Around The Town

It's Possible

Lt. Gov. Mark Taylor will be one of two men honored at the annual Possible Woman Leadership conference May 16 at the Georgia World Congress Center. He will receive the Government Ally Award for his support of legislation related to women's issues and his advocacy of stronger penalties for perpetrators of domestic violence against women.

Keynote speakers scheduled for the two-day event include former Texas Gov. Ann Richards, Kennesaw State University President Betty Siegel and former CEO of the National Council of Negro Women Jane Smith.

This year's theme — "Ahead of the Curve: Quantum Leaps in Leadership" — will cover various topics aimed at helping professional women and career mothers achieve success and balance in life and business.

Alpharetta resident Linda Wind, president of Wind Enterprises, started the Possible Woman Leadership Conference.

Richards

Siegel

Smith

Wind
